

Passport to Learning – OVJS Behaviour System

Note: this is to run alongside red cards at lunchtime BUT red cards will only become a strike if the class teacher feels it is appropriate. Teachers on duty during first break and assemble will pass on the names any children receiving a strike.

This passport is for during lessons, assembles, breaks, lunchtimes and trips outside of school. For extreme behaviour SLT will be involved and appropriate action will be taken.

The passport:

- Children will be given a new passport per half-term.
- Inside is a weekly timetable. A mark will be recorded against each session depending on their behaviour during the individual session.
- The children will travel to each lesson with their passports. Passports will stay in school.

The system:

- All children start off each day with a blank row for that day.
- If they behave appropriately during the session (meeting the appropriately behaviour guidelines below) then they will receive a tick on their timetable for that session.
- Children will receive a verbal warning for any inappropriate behaviour. They are given time to reflect on their attitude and take the responsibility to change their attitude to learning.
- If they are warned again, after they are given a verbal reminder – they will receive a strike (diagonal line) in their passport.
- If the child responds to the warnings and a significant change is made to their behaviour then their diagonal line will be turned into a tick.
- If a significant change is not made then they will remain on a strike for that session.
- However, if the behaviour continues or escalates, or a child displays serious disruptive/aggressive behaviour, they are given a behaviour mark (a cross) over the session box.
- If three strikes are given in a day, it will equal one behaviour mark.
- Lunchtime strikes will be issued via a red card. Two lunchtime OR two first break strikes over the course of one week will equal one behaviour mark.
- If a child receives two behaviour marks over the course of a half term, parents will be contacted to discuss their behaviour. If a child receives three behaviour marks, the child will be spoken to by a member of the SLT to reiterate the importance of good behaviour.
- Four behaviour marks over the course of a half term will prevent them from attending the passport treat for that half term.
- Children who show exceptional behaviour during sessions will receive a sticker to place in their passport. These will be counted at the end of a half-term to decide which children will attend an extra treat.
- Each lesson is considered a new start.
